

About VOICE

VOICE is working to re-imagine conflict and disaster response, with girls and women at the center.

We are working towards a world where girls and women are respected leaders in designing and implementing solutions to eradicate violence, both in their communities and within the halls of power. VOICE partners with and mobilizes women and girls themselves, a proven but chronically underused resource, to help aid agencies do better. We leverage our experience with both sides—understanding the complex humanitarian and peace-building industry, as well as the perspectives and methods of local groups—to bridge the gap, facilitate dialogue, and establish mutually beneficial collaboration.
